PACKAGING PRODUCTS

The American box is the most well-known type of corrugated cardboard packaging in the world, thanks to its simple shape and intuitive usage system. It is characterized by overlapping or interlocking flaps, which ensure better content protection and greater box strength. This box is made from a single sheet of cardboard and is almost always produced in one machine pass without the use of die-cutting equipment. The corrugated cardboard used to make the American box comes in different grammages: single wave cardboard, also known as single-ply cardboard, consisting of two flat liners and one inner wave; double wave cardboard, more commonly known as triple, consisting of three flat liners and two wavy surfaces; finally, the triple wave, made up of four flat liners and three waves. The function of the waves is fundamental, acting as true load-bearing pillars that provide strength and robustness, while also cushioning external impacts. The American box is mainly produced in large sizes, with high-quality cardboard, available in white and brown colors. Upon customer request, we provide custom prints with logos and texts in multiple colors. Corrugated cardboard is 100% recyclable and biodegradable.

AMERICAN BOX

Die-cut boxes allow us to obtain multiple packaging shapes, from bottle containers to cases for various equipment, from pizza boxes to trays for fruits and vegetables, satisfying the customer's needs and creativity. Die-cut boxes are mainly produced in small sizes, with the possibility of lithographic printing up to 4 colors and various construction types, from snap bottom to self-erecting, from hinged lid and bottom to glued sleeve, etc. Adolfo Felisati srl not only can create a box according to your requirements but will also supply all the complementary packaging products: from stretch film to expanded polystyrene bags, from bubble wrap to corrugated cardboard, etc. The right combination of the box and packaging accessories will protect your products during transportation, ensuring they reach their destination without any damage or abrasion.
